In the year 2004 with firm determination, having only eighty-five thousand dollars in pocket, Mr. Aidasani decided to start a new journey of his life and he launched JKIIL and rest is history. When JKIIL first launched, there were no major source for paper and paper related products in Ghana, Mr. Aidasani realized the opportunity and capitalized it to the fullest. This was the time when Mr. Pawan Aidasani (Group CEO- Jay Kay Group) started exploring sustainable business opportunities. Expansion - Mr. Pawan Aidasani built and maintained a product and related services portfolio that encompasses, but is basically restricted to everything related to Papers & Paper Products where the company has become a specialist with industry of the knowledge that can match any enterprise in this part of the world. Mr. Pawan Aidasani decided to expand the existing business portfolio, using his deep industry knowledge to ameliorate and control the risks involved, correlating them, closely with the rewards they can generate in the forms of both corporate strategic positioning, bottom line net income. But even more importantly he has built his corporate fortune through a series of business successes brought about by his embracing the core values of integrity in business conduct, innovation in product design and delivery as well as operational processes and also his focus on long term growth rather than short term profitability, Today, under guidance of Mr. Pawan Aidasani, they have established themselves as a leading supplier of paper and paper related products and a variety of other services that didn't exist in their early days. Offering the cheapest and world class Flexible & Paper Board Packaging and Printing Solutions, Digital Printing Services, Paper Bags, Stationery, Printing Chemical & Inks, Exercise Books, Text Books Printing and many more. Future Plan - We intend to continue our focus on product development We are committed to producing packaging solutions that meet both the strict requirements of the printing & packaging market and also the varying specifications of our customers. We intend to continue to focus on research and development and product development to ensure that our products meet the evolving and stringent requirements of the printing and packaging industry. We plan to expand the range of our products to include paper cups with various options. We also intend to develop wall printing solutions with lower content of ions which are used in extremely sensitive environments. We intend to expand our range of packaging materials to include moisture barrier bags, static-shielding bags and ESD bags to better support our customers in various industries. We plan to enhance our production processes We plan to invest in more advanced technology to enhance our production process. Through upgrading our existing production, laboratory-testing and research and development facilities, we believe that we would be able to keep abreast of industry trends and meet the evolving demands of our customers.

VANGUARD ASSURANCE

Founded in 1974 as the first private indigenously owned insurance company in Ghana, we have been uncompromising about remaining true to what our name Vanguard stands for – leadership. The countless number of times we have been recognized for driving innovation within the Ghanaian insurance industry is a testament to the leadership we've become known for. In 2018, a new management team was appointed and tasked with transforming the business's operations to better align with current and forecasted industry trends. The sterling growth in premiums since the current management team took over the reins of the business propelled us to explore new growth opportunities which led us to completing a deal through BlueOrchard, a leading impact investment fund manager which has resulted in InsuResilience Investment Fund (IIF), acquiring 40% shares in Vanguard Assurance.

CATHRINE WESLEY

Cathrine Wesley is the Country Manager for Ghana and the Ivory Coast at Emirates, a role she has held since 2018. In this role, Cathrine is responsible for the airline's overall business in the market, including sales and service functions for passenger, cargo, management, and airport operations. Her career in international aviation began in 1982. Cathrine joined Emirates in 2009 as the airline established operations to Durban, where she was instrumental in the successful launch of third gateway in South Africa. In 2013, Cathrine transferred to the Johannesburg office, one of Africa's biggest air transport hubs. Emirates recently celebrated 20 years of operations to Ghana. The market remains a priority on the airline's vast global network, with over 2 million passengers and 51,000 tonnes of cargo transported over the past two decades. In 2023, Emirates was recognized by the Presidential Honour for Distinguished Service for its efforts during the COVID-19 pandemic that saw the cargo division, Emirates SkyCargo airlift and distribute 62 tonnes of Covid-19 vaccine doses. Under Cathrine's leadership, Emirates continues to scale operations in Ghana, contributing to the local economy and tourism.

A few words from Cathrine:

Few professions are more challenging, or more rewarding, than a career in aviation. This industry has opened opportunities for me and my team, and I am passionate about my job. I look forward to continuing leading Emirates operations in Ghana and continuing to connect people from Ghana to help them discover the world.

DR NICK DANSO ADJEI

Dr Nick Danso Adjei is one of Ghana's leading industrialists whose sense of ingenuity and patriotism has promoted the socio-economic development of the country. The Nkoranza/Brediborn entrepreneur had his basic education at the Bredi Primary School in the Nkoranza South District of Bono East Region. It is important to note that the village (Bredi) and the school were established by his father Nana Kwadwo Adjei of blessed memory who was the Chief of the village. At the very early age of about 11 years, the spirit of entrepreneurship could be seen in him, as he started petty trading which made him well-known in his town. After his basic education, he travelled to Tema where he joined his maternal aunt to make ice cream for sale. Through Dr Danso Adjei's efforts, the ice cream business flourished and expanded competing with Fan Milk's products like Poki and others. After about two years in Tema, he left for Spain where he continued his education. Based upon his early experience in business, Mr. Danso Adjei quickly integrated into the business world in Europe after school and went on to work with Cilogar Construction and Exporting SL, importing large quantities of Sanitary, Building and Tiles from China for the European Market. A company that he rose through the ranks and became a partner. After many years in Spain, he returned to Ghana in 1992 to help in the nation building effort with his resources. Mr. Danso Adjei first went into the hospitality industry and set up the plush Royal Nick Hotel the biggest hotel in Tema today. He then brought into Ghana his Spanish partners and established Nick & Cilogar Limited in sanitary wares, buildings and tiles in 1998. The Company, Nick & Cilogar Limited is now solely owned by Mr. Danso Adjei under the new name Royal Lighting Limited. In 2001, Mr Nick Danso Adjei established the Ghana Link Network Services Ltd (GLNS), a destination inspection company that conducts price verification of imported goods and enhances trade facilitation. This firm through its work helped in revenue maximation for the government at the Tema port. Also in July 2003, he established Nick TC-Scan Limited, a non-intrusive scanning of containerized cargos using state of the art technology and equipment in scanning. He is on record as being the first African to own such a facility, which has branches at the Kotoka International Airport, the Tema and Takoradi Harbours as well as the Aflao and Paga borders. His business exploits did not end on the shores of Ghana, he has ventured into Sierra Leone, Guinea Bissau and Gambia, in the area of destination and mineral inspection and thus offering excellent job opportunities to not only the nationals of those countries but even some Ghanaians. He established the Africa Link Inspection Company Limited, a destination inspection Company and Global Export Inspection which is into the inspection of minerals earmarked for export. Dr. Danso Adjei further extended his business acumen to the oil and gas sector and established Misyl Energy, a bulk oil distributing Company. Within that same year, he also established Nick Petroleum Company Limited (Oil Marketing Company), which comprises of filling stations dotted across the country. His company, Ghana Link Network Services Limited currently has a ten-year contract with the Government of Ghana to provide an End-to-End single window e-Customs solution to the Ghana Revenue Authority, Customs Division. The success of the systems is unapparelled in the history of Ghana. The multiple award-winning single window e-customs product is known as Integrated Customs Management Systems (ICUMS). This system which was rolled out nationally on June 1, 2020 replaced the multiple vendors (GCNET and West Blue Limited). In line with Dr. Danso Adjei's ideals of making useful contributions to society, he has over the years with his companies carried out several corporate social responsibilities by donating several thousands of Ghana Cedis in support of developmental activities at the national and community levels. A few of such commendable projects are as follows:

- Construction of mortuary facility for St. Theresa's Hospital, Nkoranza
- Construction of a Police Station and Barracks in between the Ashanti and Bono East regions
- Establishment of an education endowment fund in the Bono East Region
- Financial support to hundreds of less privileged Ghanaian Students from Junior High Level right up to the University
- Donation of cash for the upkeep of inmates of the Accra Psychiatric Hospital
- Cash donation towards the celebration of the Golden Jubilee of the Brong-Ahafo Region
- Monthly Financial assistance to widows in the Bono East Region
- Donation of Incubators to Nkronza and Ejura Government Hospitals
- Construction of a 32-kilometre road between Kintampo and Konso

Besides his group of companies' immense corporate social responsibility to Ghana, Dr. Danso Adjei has been a great benefactor to Ghana through the jobs he has created for Ghanaian youth and professionals. Dr. Danso Adjei's impact on Ghana's economy and society has been significant, providing jobs to Ghanaian youth and professionals through his various companies. His contributions have not gone unnoticed, with Azteca University conferring on him an Honorary Doctorate Degree Award for his hard work and immense contribution to individuals, society, and the nation as a whole, taking into consideration his creativity and innovation.
